Sunday

abt 25
of us.

On October 30, 2020 - a Friday 5 staff (med.) came in all in protective garb and gave all of us in "dorm" a nose swab test. I have been having aches & pains a headache that would come and go.

Two days before I notices Officer [redacted] come in "dorm" get as ^{far as} my bed - (3) and remembered he had forgot his face mask - I'm not saying he started it - or want to get him in trouble as we are all human - Officer [redacted] is a fine fellow.

I have in bed 2, next to me [redacted] who is sick, [redacted] in bed 6, sick, just across from me is [redacted] bed 5 who is also sick.

Officer [redacted] told us as he walked through that we had all been exposed to the virus and would be on lock down.

On Oct 31st at 12:15 AM the guards came in dorm [redacted] flipped on our lights and told 6 or 7 guys they were moving! One happened to be my ADA person [redacted]

██████ is in a wheelchair, and a diabetic. He has to be helped in all he does - and now they are moving him away from me to a new place. Well I got him moved - packed all his belongings, as he sat by and watched - got his bed made in dorm ██████ just next to dorm ██████.

I could no longer get his meals for him, and take him for his diabetic ~~shots~~ shots. I just hoped someone else would step up to the mark. How will he get a shower, shave and even brush his teeth without me taking these things to him? He would not do any of these things unless he was reminded and helped - He should not be here! I get his laundry ready - then fold and put it away for him when it comes back -

November 2, 2020 the staff handed out papers telling me I was positive for the COVID-19 virus - I was also told - by the guard that [redacted] might be moved back to "A" dorm so I could help him. He came back later that day to Bed 12. I packed him up and unpacked him in his new bed - put his TV together and all his things - He sat in his wheelchair as I made up his bed - Got him in the shower and in clean cloths. He was all used. He had taken off his pullups just wearing bare pants. I made him something to eat and warm him up - I find him asleep in the bathroom and wheel him back to his bed. He never got out to lie down on his bed, as when I got up the next morning he was still in his wheelchair. [redacted]

Nov 3rd

I took him to the bathroom, where it took us 45 min to get him on the toilet -

He can no longer stand! I saw medical abt 11:00 AM and told them how he can no longer stand - that he sits in his wheelchair and pees himself. I can't take care of him.

Nov 4th 2020 Wed. I wake up abt 6 AM. to help [redacted] with a blood draw - I notice [redacted] who is next to me in bed 6 - we are maybe 3 ft apart from each other. His arm was hanging over in my walkway and he was on his back - and his right leg is bend up. He wasn't under any of his covers - and he often slept on his back, so that was normal - I still thought he looked dead then. The night before he had a labored breathing spell - the doctor told one medic he had a hard time breathing laying down - and the medic told him to prop himself up!

When they brought breakfast to us around 7 am I noticed [redacted] had not moved - I touched his arm - cold - I touched his face - cold - I put my hand on his chest, no ^{movement} breathing! I went over to [redacted] his ADA and told them "I think [redacted] dead!" He came over and felt him, and confirmed it. The CO's were still outside handing out food trays - so they came in and did what they could do - but he had been dead for some time - between 2 am and 5 am - The guards still tried chest compressions - a fire team came from the outside - we all were then sent to dorm [redacted] to their day room for 5 hours - when we came back to our dorm - all of [redacted] belongings gone - His bed was filled later that same day with another inmate!
